

Name: Thian Lian Ben

Documentation for project test

In this project test, I was facing issues like misunderstand the project file you provided. After you explained that it was able to remove some code, I understood I can customise as I want.

So I started making the decision to write a conversation system using command texting.

You can execute the program using the below command

python test.py

I'd like to apologize if my code didn't align with your initial question and for not proceeding with the creation of a Telegram chatbot. I found myself unsure due to the complexity of the code you provided. While I grasp FastAPI and successfully tested your code via Postman, I found command prompt chatting the most comprehensible. Hence, I opted for its implementation. Thank you for your time, and Happy New Year! I hope for future collaborations to enhance our company.